SILOLONA

Sisolona, truly a modern classic sailing vessel was built to the demandingly high standards of German Lloyds register of shipping. No expense has been spared to ensure that discerning travelers, accustomed to understated elegance and exquisite cuisine, discover an agreeable mode of transportation from which to admire the majestic scenery, underwater wonders and fascinating artistic expression found along the fabled spice routes of South East Asia.

“...and suddenly a puff of wind, faint, tepid and laden with strange odours of blossoms comes out of the still night — the first sigh of the East on my face.”

Joseph Conrad

The traveler who has eyes to see occupies a world as fresh as the first day and just as full of wonders.

Travel is the art of living life outside the boundaries established by small minds which live and die without ever experiencing the art of living.

Authentic colors, textures, and styles derived from the cultures they embody endow each of the five suites with a relaxed yet distinctive atmosphere. Spacious bathing facilities are tastefully integrated into the décor providing in a gracious well considered manner those amenities so essential to a comfortable standard of living.

How can a place be condensed to mere scenery or people be defined by plain words?

Exquisite culinary delights make every meal an adventure in fine taste. Explore the exotic tropical cuisine or enjoy your old favorites carefully prepared from the finest fresh ingredients exactly to your taste.

How can a traveler write of what he felt,
smelled, and tasted along the route?

How can one predict those fortunate times
when deep in the unknown an exotic beauty sensually stimulates the creative process?

It is then that I must paint or draw what my poor eye tries desperately to capture knowing that it is but a fleeting moment which will soon fade into a memory.

A cloud drifts, a ship fills her sails, once more life is new.

Memory is a wistful smile
